Forgotten Books, United States, 2015. Paperback. Book Condition: New. 229 x 152 mm. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Excerpt from The Field Naturalist s Quarterly, Vol. 2 Specially are our thanks due to many secretaries of field clubs in various parts of the kingdom. Wherever possible we have fallen in with suggestions offered, and shall be glad to consider any in the future. Our sole aim is to provide our readers with the best matter we can obtain from their own particular point of view. From many letters received it would appear that the F. N. Q. is supplying a want, and with increasing support it will be our endeavour to supply that want still more satisfactorily. As regards the volume now commencing, it will differ in some respects from volume i., though the main lines will remain unaltered. As before, a certain proportion of articles will bear on the season of issue, a feature which has been generally approved. Of regular contributors, F. G. Aflalo continues his Fish articles, Mr Bird his on the various aspects of Broadland Fauna, the editor his Reptile Studies, Mr Minos his Archaeology series, Mr Westell his Seasonal subjects, Mr Morley his Entomology; whilst the Library, Correspondence, and Field Club columns will be on the same lines as hitherto. Of new features, one is initiated in the present issue - namely, the first instalment of our Record of Species observed, the objects of which were explained in our last. It is hoped that this column will prove valuable to both writers and readers. A more important venture is the series of articles on British Field Zoology, the introduction to which appears with this number. This venture is the direct result of the editorial which appeared in our last. It...
